MANAGEMENT COMMENTARY

Market movements in November 2020 were driven substantially by the positive vaccine news released by Pfizer at the start of the month. The Fund delivered performance of +1.68% compared with +12.74% from the FTSE All Share. In a continuation of the theme from October, core UK infrastructure holdings performed well during the month, with 3i Infrastructure, Sequoia Economic Infrastructure Fund and International Public Partnerships Ltd all delivering positive returns. The Fund’s most successful holding in the month was Office Properties Income REIT (“OPI”), a US company focused on leasing office buildings to the federal government. OPI delivered +24.12% in the month as the outlook for the sector immediately improved with the prospect of an effective vaccine. As the Fund approached its third anniversary on 4 December 2020, performance since inception remained strong, with outperformance over the FTSE All Share of 24.79%.

From a UK policy perspective, November 2020 saw the publication of the Government’s National Infrastructure Strategy. This ambitious strategy should generate a strong pipeline of investment opportunities across both core infrastructure and renewable energy, many of which will fall within the remits of the Fund’s holdings. The strategy reinforces key themes that support the UK’s position as a global leader for infrastructure investment in the coming years. First, that the Government understands the high levels of investment needed to meet climate change goals, which this strategy supports. Second, the Government is clear in its belief that private capital has a vital role to play, a key commitment for the long-term success of many holdings in the Fund. As the Government renews its focus on delivering net zero carbon and providing fit-for-purpose social and economic infrastructure, the Fund remains well placed through its strategy and core holdings to provide investors with exposure to these long-term tailwinds.

The Fund ended November 2020 with a NAV of £518.6m.
