

Foresight Charitable Giving Days

RSPCA RADCLIFFE CENTRE

Who are they?

Based in Nottinghamshire, the RSPCA Radcliffe Animal Centre Trust is an independent charity that raises funds through local people, companies' donations and fundraising events.

What do they do?

They are responsible for the rescue and rehoming of thousands of abandoned dogs, cats and other animals.

Their mission

To rescue, rehabilitate and rehome animals in need and provide them with the love, care and attention they deserve throughout their journey to find a forever home.

VOLUNTEERING DAY

We encourage our employees to take a day to volunteer for a charity close to their heart. As an animal lover and dog owner, Ross Payne, a Business Development Manger based in the Nottingham office, chose to volunteer at the RSPCA Radcliffe Centre on Christmas Eve.

Ross spent the morning helping in part of the cattery which houses cats that have been recently brought to the centre and are not yet ready to be rehomed. He bonded with a 3 legged cat called Tommy and was delighted to see 4 cats rehomed on the morning shift alone. In the afternoon, he spent time with all of the dogs, helping with feeling, toileting and walking them.

“The team were very helpful and friendly and made use of me where they could. I’m looking to do the same thing next year at the Nottingham Greyhound Rescue.”
